Later today, the Commerce De-partment released figures showing that imports exceeded exports last month by $362.6 million-making this the first time in 21 years that a deficit in international trade persisted for three consecutive months

The April-May-June deficitimports exceeding exports-totaled $803 million, the worst quarterly deficit since 1946. The rise in imports wiped out a firstquarter trade surplus, and left a net deficit of $373.3 millon for the January-June period.

The government blamed strikes and anticipation of strikes for some of the red ink in trade. In the cases of the budget deficit and the fall in leading indicators, the administration put the best possible face on the statistics.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Democrat whom President Nixon has made his chief economic spokesman, and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said the budget actually showed a $2.5-billion surplus if viewed from a "full employment" position.

A Surplus If ...

This meant that if the economy had been humming along at only 4 percent unemployment - the standard for eo-called "full eniployment" — the government's books would have shown a surplus. But the latest unemployment rate-m June-was reported to be 5.6 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis, and the May figure was 6.2 percent.

Secretary Connally and Mr. Shultz made a political comparison: This was the third atraight rear that the U.S. government has held spending below the revenues that would have come to the Treasury If the economy were booming.

"This record," they said. "is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion." Those years came in the Democratic administration of former President Lyndon Johnson.

President Nixon, when he submitted the fiscal 1971 budget to Congress early in 1970, said that it would bring a $1.3-billion surplus. He pledged to "submit a balanced budget," which he said was "particularly necessary because the cost of living has been rising rapidly for the past fiva

But the $1.3-billion "surplus" melted soon after the fiscal year got under way and the economy persisted in sluggish performance. To perk it up, Democrats repeat-edly urged the President to step up federal spending.

Some unwanted spending forced on the President by the Democratic-controlled Congress, com-bined with built-in increases in outlay (like higher Social Security payments! and administration-sought speeding boosts, all drove the deficit higher and higher as layoffs and unemployment held down tax revenues. One pro-marketeer, Michael Stewart, the former foreign secretary, said today that the execu-tive's decision would not affect him. He said. "I shall still support entry on the terms announced by the present government."

Leaders of Britain's Labor federation, the Trades Union Congress, also voted to oppose entry today. The margin in the TUC's general council was smaller than had been expected, 15 to 11.

These executive decisions are subject to approval by full conferences of the Labor party and the TUC this fall. But there is no doubt that both conferences will come down against the Common Market. The two biggest unlons in Brit-

2 Arab Angers

BEIRUT, July 28 (AP),-Communist parties in Lebanon, Syria, Iraq and Jordan have issued a joint statement condemning Gen. Numeiri. The Lebanese Communist newspaper Al-Nida today printed a headline across its front page saying: "Butchers assassinate Abdul Khalek Mahjoub."

Under this sort of pressure, it is felt that the Russians may soon have to decide whether to put real pressure on Gen. Numeiri —and perhaps lose their stake in Sudan—or allow the Communists to be eradicated-and lose the support of a vast section of the Arab left.

Many Arab regimes that suppress their own Communists have clost and cordial relations with the Soviet Union. Moscow, with millions of dollars invested in the Middle East, until now found this arrangement tolerable.

Soviet criticism of Gen. Numeiri has brought growls of anger from the Arab nationalist press in Beirut. Papers reflecting Egypt's views have said that tha Soviet Union is the Arabs' best friend but should not meddle in internal matters.

More Units Pulling Out

The U.S. Command said today it was pulling four big engineer units and a signal company, totaling 2,200 men, out of Vietnam in the biggest single withdrawal since July 1.

The engineer units all were coming from Second Military Region, which includes the critical Central Highlands area, a spokesman said. Surveys show a marked drop in rural security in that area since January, when the first American units were withdrawn, the spokesman said.

The new drive into Cambodia involved two South Vietnamese regiments of the 25th Infantry Division, arrifted into an area north of Highway-1 about ten miles west of the Cambodian town of Svay Rieng, 75 miles west

Light Contact Made

Troops ran into light contact shortly after they landed and reported killing nine Communists and taking one Cambodian prisoner. Several other Cambodians in the area were held as suspects, field reports sald. In explaining at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing how he had "come down a loug road to the conclusion" that Congress must reassert its war pow-ers, Sen. Scott appeared to criticize practices in the Nixon administration as well as previous administrations.

Without congressional action, he said, "I do not see how to stop the merry-go-round situation" in which the executive branch "maintains as much secrecy as possible to the point of suffoca-tion and isolation."

"The time has come," he said, when Congress will not be denied the right to participate, in ac-cordance with the Constitution, in the whole enormous business of how wars are begun."

Sen. Scott had represented a potential point of opposition to war powers legislation within the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. With his support it now seems likely that the committee will report out a bill after the August congressional recess with the objective not so much of pushing for immediata enactment out of exposing the legislation to examination by the legal and academic community as well as the executive branch. The hope of Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D., Ark. the committee chairman, is that the Senate may then proceed to consider the legislation early next

Collage of Proposals

What is likely to emerge from the committee is a collage of various proposals offered by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R., N.Y., Thomas F. Eagleton, D., Mo., Lloyd Bentsen, D., Texas, Robert Taft jr., R., Ohio, and John Stennis, D., Miss. In various ways, their pro-posals would authorize tha President to undertake military actions in certain emergency situations but specify that the President could not continue hostilities beyond a certain period without ohtaining congressional approval. Meanwhile, a Senate Judiciary ubcommittee, beaded by Sen. Sam J. Ervin jr., D., N.C., opened hearings yesterday on legislation designed to curb the power of the executive branch to withhold information from Congress.

Before the subcommittee is a Fulbright bill that would require executive branch employees to appear before congressional committees when summoned, even if they subsequently decline to dis-close information on the basis of a contention of executive privilege approved by the President. Sen. Fulbright, the opening witness, complained that the Nixon foreign policy through a White House "super burean" that is "shielded from Congress and the American people behind a barricade of executive privilege."

Contrary to the spirit of the Constitution, he said, there has grown up within the White House a whole new foreign policy bureau -now headed by Henry J. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser—that has heen "vested with the most crucial decision-making power on matters of war and peace but responsible to neither the Congress nor tha

N.Y. Police Become Film-Makers In Drive on Pornographic Movies

NEW YORK, July 28 (NYT).—As part of their crackdown on obscenity, plainclothes policemen armed with movie cameras and tape recorders will go into theaters allegedly showing pornographic films and will make movies of the movies.

The reproductions will then be taken before a judge for him to determine whether the original films should be seized. This new tactic, outlined yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Donald H. Heller at a Practicing Law Institute workshop on "Pornography and the Law," is an effort to bypass the complicated legal procedure of seizing the original film itself.

Mr. Heller, who was in charge of obscenity prosecution in the New York district attorney's office until May, said that a test case would probably be brought by the fall. A spokesman for the Police Department said that the project was part of the "continuing and more intensified effort to rid the midtown area of pornographic films."

Some courts have held that seizure of film without a prior adversary hearing is unconstitutional because it violates freedom of expression under the First Amendment. In a prior adversary hearing the prosecutor would ask the judge to serve a subpoena on the producer of an allegedly pornographic film, directing him to bring the movie into court.

A 'Pentagon Papers' Author Says They Went Unread

By Thomas J. Foley

WASHINGTON, July 28-An author of the "Pentagon Papers" said yesterday it was "ludicrous" to have spent so much time and effort studying U.S.-Vietnam policy decisions when so few of the policymakers ever read the 47volume document.

Melvin Gurtov, formerly employed by the Rand Corp. and now a professor at the University of California at Riverside, made the remark at the opening session of a three-day panel discussion sponsored by 17 con-gressmen on the significance of the still-classified papers.

Prof. Gurtov said that as far as he knew. former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who ordered the study, was not one of the very few who looked at any of the 7,000-page study that covered 23 years of U.S. relations with Vietnam. Nor does he believe Mr. McNamara's successor, Clark Clifford, ever read it, Prof. Gurtov said.

Mitchell Argues Against National U.S. Police Force

Mr. Mitchell cautioned against concentrating too much power in a central authority with general criminal jurisdiction.

He said such a trend would create a jurisdictional clash be-tween federal and state authorities, which in itself has been considered "a threat to the very libertles we so highly prize."

Eight of 800 Held In May Protest

WASHINGTON, July 28 (WP). -A superior court jury acquitted yesterday the first eight of about 800 demonstrators held on charges stemming from mass arrests on the steps of the Capitol during the May Day anti-war protest.

Hailing the verdict as a victory for free speech, defense attorneya said they have been informed that the government will now drop charges in the remaining cases. Although more than 1,000 demonstrators initially were arrested in the May 5 incident, charges previously were dropped against about 200 others.

The charges on which tha eight were acquitted were disorderly parading and unlawful entry at the Capitol.

"The jury has spoken and we will abide by its decision." Assistant U.S. Attorney Luke C. Moore, the government's chief prosecutor, said. By law the government is prohibited from appealing an acquittal.

Mr. Moore, however, refused to confirm defense statements that prosecutors will drop charges in the other cases in light of the verdict. He said U.S. Attorney Thomas A. Flanuery will have to decida whether to proceed.

By Robert J. Samuelson

WASHINGTON, July 28 (WP). The Senate today decisively defeated a proposal that would have delayed final consideration of a federal loan guarantee for the ailing Lockeed Aircraft Corp. until September or October. The vote was 60-to-35.

The outcome was a good omen for the aerospace giant, which has been urging Congress to guarantee a $250 million bank loan to complete development of Lockheed's TriStar airliner.

Without such a government guarantee by Aug. 6—the begin-ning of the four-week congres-sional aummer recess—Lockheed says it faces the possibility of bankruptcy, as airline customers for the TriStar, Lockheed's banks of the British government might withdraw support for the program. The British government is financing the Rolls-Royce engine development for the TriStar.

Stunning Reversal

Todar's vote also represented a stunning reversal of an earlier setback for Lockheed and the Nixon administration, which supports the loan guarantee bill. Late Monday, tha Senate had refused by the surprisingly wide margin of 45-to-38 to set aside the same proposal which was defeated today.

Administration supporters de layed consideration of the pro-posal yesterday and used the time for lobbying to solidify support for Lockheed.

The shift toward the Lockheed loan guarantee was confirmed later in the day with a 59-to-39 vote to cut off further debate on the legislation. Opponents have been engaging in extended debate to block the bill. Although the motion for cloture -tha debate cut-off procedure-still fell seven votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to pass, the vote of 59 in favor was a sharp change from Monday when only 42 senators voted for

New Voters Seen as Help By McCarthy

Former presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy said today he could expect a five-million-vote advantage from new voters 18 to 23 years old, if he decides to run for president in 1972.

'I don't see how the extension of the vote to people 18-21 could do anything but be helpful to me," said Mr. McCarthy, whose 1968 anti-war candidacy was strongly boosted by young sup-porters and largely credited with toppling former President Lyndon B. Johnson

"It's one of those things you take into account when you assess your chances," the former Democratic senator from Minnesota said in an interview. There's a prospect of 25 million voters in the 18-23-year-old range that didn't vote in 1968.

"If only 15 million of these vote, you could assume you'll get a two-to-one share of them." Mr. McCarthy said. "That's a five-million-vote advantage over anyone else. Judging from the way elections are going recently, that's a pretty good bulge."

The 55-year-old former senator is in London on holiday before going on to a poetry festival.

Guardian to Carry Le Monde in English

newspaper Le Monde today announced that its two-year-old weekly English-language edition will be combined with Britain's Guardian Weekly. The first combined edition is due to appear next Wednesday. Le Monde said that the circulation of the English-language edition was about 10,000 and that income did not meet production costs. There seemed little possibility of breaking aven, the news-paper said, in view of the relativehigh price put on the edition and the difficulty of transporting it to distant markets.

Preparing for Nixon Trip

U.S.-China Talks Expected To Be Centered in Ottawa

By Tad Szulc meetings with the Chinese Nationalist ambassador, James C. H.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (NYT). -Diplomatic discussions in preparation for President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Peking are ex-pected to be conducted mainly through the Chinese Embassy in Canada, administration officials said privately yesterday.

They said the arrival in Ottawa last Friday of Ambassador Huang Hua, who is a specialist in American affairs, offered the best opportunity for such dis-

But these officials pointed out that the President's representatives might on occasion use channels in other foreign capitals where contacts might be possible with less public notice.

Information on U.S. moves toward both the Communist and Nationalist Chinese governments has been emerging only from conversations with administra-tion officials and informed foreign diplomats. Officials have been forbidden to discuss these matters in public since Mr. Nixon announced on July 15 that he would go to Peking.

It is believed that no American official has met with Mr. Huang since his arrival in Ottawa and the impression here is that he would be given time to settle down before contacts are estab-

The White House press secretary, Ron Ziegler, said yesterday that U.S. policy on Chinese representation in the United Nations would be announced, "when ready," by Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Both Mr. Ziegler and State Department spokesmen made it clear that the announcement was quite some time away,

Other officials attributed the delay in the announcement to the failure of the Chinese National-ists to inform the United States on how they would react if Com-munist China is admitted to the UN this year.

It was understood that Mr. Rogers has held two unpublicized

Both papers agree that truck, rail and barge cargoes to and from West Berlin should be sealer' by the sender. The Russians insisted that in exceptional cases the East Germans should have the right to inspect cargoes and

• On West German presence in West Berlin—the Western paper agrees that West Berlin i not part of West Germany and that full parliamentary sessions should not be held there. The Russians insist that no congresses of West German parties or orga-nizations should be held there

• On passports—the Russians Insist that West Berliners have thei own passports, while they concede that West Germany could handle consular services for them abroad. The Western Allies say they should have West German passports stamped with a special notice that this function was being carried out for the three Western powers who control West Berlin

The Russians also demanded a general consulate in West Berlin. The West still has not mads a policy decision on this.

The two papers agree that

West Berliners should be allowed to visit East Germany—some-thing they cannot do now—on faminal, religious, cultural or touristic grounds. They also agree in principle on solving the probiems of the small enclaves of West Berlin territory, such as the town of Steinstuccken, which are surrounded by East Germany and have difficult access to West

A Bonn spokesman denounced the pohlished versions of the two positions as "old hat." In fact, there is little evidence that progress has been made on these and other crucial points where the two sides differ.

The U.S. and East-West Trade

what he regards as congressional boarders trying to clamber into his foreign-policy ship but, rather inconsistently, he has done little to help along congressional efforts to arm him with more authority in East-West trade. Trade-minded legislators wanted him to support repeal of the Fino Amendment, which prevents the Export-Import Bank from financing trade with countries whose governments aid Hanoi, and to replace ft with a provision giving him authority to approve Ex-Im financing country by country. But Mr. Nixon said he did not favor repeal of Fino: the issue lost on the House floor. When a House-Senate conference wrote in repeal, he shifted position but only to the point of saying he wouldn't object to it. This is pretty tepid, particularly when you consider that the President intended to exercise Ex-Im discretion, if he got it, for Romania. He has made it clear for a long time that he wants to give Romania—a burr in Moscow's side—all the help he discreetly

Essentially, the Fino Amendment, enacted in 1968, codified the illusion that Communist countries would sell out Hanoi for the sake of trade with the United States. In practice, it did not limit the North Vietnamese war effort; it merely ensured that American firms would lose some business. During the long postwar period when Americans enjoyed a fat trade surplus and without much complaining carried on an anti-Communist crusade, this would have been all right. But the trade surplus has all but disappeared and so has much of our anti-Communist fervor. This is the spirit in which the Fino Amendment came under attack. With a vote due soon on the conference report containing that amendment, it's not too late for Mr. Nixon finally to put in his oar. In a related development showing a similar passivity on trade, Mr. Nixon has ended months of delay with another backhanded gesture. Asked to support a bill giving

Mr. Nixon is often to be found repelling Romania "most favored nation" or MFN status (that is, ending tariff discrimination against its exports), he said he would "not object" to the bill. At the same time, he has indicated that in the event Congress offers him authority to extend MFN to other countries, he will not use it. Since MFN is not only a real obstacle to trade but one with high political visibility, his attitude is negative, to say the least.

Something more seems to be involved in Mr. Nixon's thinking then a calculation that the economic potential of East-West trade is too limited to merit the expected domestic political difficulty of enacting legislation to help broaden it. [The judgment that legislative change in this area would be difficult and costly, by the way, is widely disputed on Capitol Hill.I Nor is this just a case of Mr. Nixon's being unwilling to ask congressional help in "building bridges" to the East -though it is a fact that in trade matters. and not only trade matters, he has shown a disposition to deal with powers already in presidential hands. Removing restrictions on trade with China is the most recent example.

The President's approach to trado seems to be primarily political: he eeems to be trying to fit each trade gesture into a larger global mosaic which he, perhaps only he, has in his head. Want to soften up China? Remove old restrictions. Reward Romania? Let it get MFN. Mollify Moscow? Approve the Mack truck deal. Get a Berlin agresment? Offer, as Under Secretary of State Irwin did in a recent speech to discuss trade and other matters at a European security conference. It's odd to find a Republican President so unwilling to let businessmen make trading decisions by themselves. But that seems to be Mr. Nixon's Whether the country's balance of payments and the business community and his political opposition will continue allowing him to treat the matter as his own personal preserve is something else again.

THE WASHINGTON POST.

On the Road With Agnew

Vice-President Agnew has returned home after a four-week, ten-country tour around the world and that is good news, no matter how you look at it, but particularly if you look at it the way we do. The way we look at it—and we would judge from nothing more than a glance at the Congressional Record of recent days that we are not entirely sione in our opinion-the Vice-President does not travel well. That is not to say that he does not move about in the grand manner. According to Newsweek, his entourage numbered 141 persons, plus 11 newsmen, in an armada of four 707s for passengers, with a fifth cargo plane carrying two builet-proof limousines. There was, from all accounts, a good deal of golf-playing and sightseeing and ceremony along the way, with time off for a vacation in Spain. If diplomacy was practiced in any important sense it has been skillfully concealed. Of the itinerary, it is perhaps enough to say that it included four monarchies and a batch of regimes dependent in one degree or another upon the military for their hold on power. So it was not a grand tour in any ideological sense. Although Mr. Agnew did look in briefly on Black Africa (Kenya and the Congo) he quickly balanced this off by a call on the last European colonialist power in Africa (Portugal).

But it is not the itinerary that is troubling about the performance-presumably, the Vice-President didn't choose it, in any case. And it did provide a little light counterpoint to the simultaneous voyage of Dr. Kissinger concerning a visit by the President to Peking. When you are making a big move toward the left in the world ideological spectrum, there may be something to be said for a few reassuring gestures toward the right.

But there is really nothing to be said for any official American traveler overseas earrying his equalid domestic quarrels around with him. Knocking your own country when you are outside of it is not even becoming to private tourists, let alone Vice-Presidents, and that is what we mean by saying that Mr. Agnew does not travel well.

One gets more or less inured, for example, to the Agnew Crusade against the news media when he is stirring up the faithful at Republican fund-raising dinners here at home. But Singapore, where two newspapers hed just recently been closed down by the government, was an odd place to denounce the American press, in simplistic terms, for being "too ready to assist the North Vietnamese by their emphasis on what's taking place," or for misleading foreigners about the Nixon foreign policy by giving too much prominence to "isolationist" voices in America. With what might be called excessive relish, the Vice-President chose Ethiopia as the spot to report his findings that his hosts all along the way had been "appalled" hy the publishing of the Pentagon Papers. There was no defense of free institutions. no effort to defend the quite extraordinarily good record of the U.S. government in the business of secret-keeping, only a craven urgency to agree with the complaints he reportedly encountered at every step.

* * * Now this is one way to get along, and you can argue that no great harm is done at home or abroad by denouncing the American media in countries which for the most part wouldn't understand the workings of a free press in any event. The same most emphatically cannot be said however, for the Vice-President's gratuitous attack upon American black leaders from, of all places. Africa. The quality of African leadership is "in distinct contrast with many of those in the United States who have arrogated unto themselves the position of black leadere, those who spend their time in querulous complaint and constant recriminations against the rest of society." was the way he put it and this was no narrow bank of black militants Mr. Agnew had in mind but "a very substantial cross-section of what describes itself as the black leadership. . . It was a relief, the Vice-President confided. to spend some time among men like Haile Selassie, Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, tho Congo's Joseph Mobutu-dedicated, enlightened, dynamic and extremely apt for the task that faces them." How's that for standing a problem on its head? American black leaders, struggling for a voice and a measure of influence, have "arrogated" power to themselves? And Africa's black leaders, who have for the most part selzed power and hold it by force, are, on the other hand, pictured as statesmen who could teach their American counterparts a thing or two about gratitude for favors received, about not carrying on so.

All things considered, it is good to have the Vice-President home. THE WASHINGTON POST.

Thirst for Faith

Do there exist in the West forces which can resist the illness? I don't see them. The main strength of all the totalitarian movements of our century is the thirst for faith, the desperate wish to leave the solitary cell of one's soul at any price. What in the West can resist this craving? Science? It has nothing to do with it. A high standard of living? Not likely. Political democracy? But it also needs a religious basis (although this often is not realized).

And in the East, each day the most fanatical and populous totalitarian power the world has ever seen grows stronger and

A New Look at Japan

By Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON.—In many ways world, the busidess and political the biggest impact of any rapprochement between the United States and China is ou relations between this country and Japan.

For Americans now have to think about a Japan we have preferred not to see at all. That Japan is a nascent super-power with the vast potential for extending military and political in-fluence over large parts of Asia.

Everybody knows, of course, about Japan the economic giant, flexing its muscles in markets the world over. At present rates of growth the Japanese will surpass this country in most of the major categories of economic power by the end of the century. Already the Japanese have acquired long-term access to large shares in the raw-material wealth of Latin America, Africa, and Southeast Asia. They have be-come major producers—not merely of cheap novelties, but of steel and autos and ships and indus-trial chemicals.

Military Potential

More important, they have forged ahead in the most sophisticated areas of economic development-in electronics and in computers. They have already sent aloft weather satellites. And no country touches Japan when it comes to maintaining steady prosperity and growth.

Though there has been a hold on defense activity, Japan has the underlying economic base to become a formidable military power very rapidly. Japan could even become a nuclear powerand not just in the token sense that Britain and France are nuclear powers, but with a full panoply of land and sea-based launching systems and defense

Those potentialities have been obscured from American view for several reasons. The Liberal Democratic party has been in power ever since the war, and many of its leaders, having played an active role in preparing the holocaust, have had a special interest in advertising to their own people and to the world that their intentions are purely peaceful and benign.

This public relations need fitted nicely with a strategy of letting Americans bear the defense burden so the Japanese could have that much more in the way of resources to plow back into economic development. Because Jap-leaders of this country were pirased to accept them at face value. of self-reinforciug illusions can-

But this ramshackle collection not stand the shock of the American turnabout on China. The bitter reaction to the president's coming trip to Peking taken by Prime Minister Esaku Seto by itself shows that Tokyo and Washington are not necessarily slways bound by the same in-

New Role

In particular, Mr. Sato's evident concern for maintaining good relations with Taiwan indicates that Japan might well replace the United States as the dominant power in the chain of territories fringing China from the offshore islands through to Southeast Asia. Finally, Mr. Sato's reaction reflects tremendous political presflects fremendous political pressure on his regime. Hardly any-body in Washington expects that he will be prime minister a year from now. And what happens when the etable coalition which has run Japan since the war passes from the scene is a closed

In these uncertain conditions we Americans have to stop kidding ourselves about Japan. We can no longer assume, as so many businessmen now in government do assume, that economics is the dominant consideration in relations between this country and Jepan. Assuring American busiuess better terms for trade and investment is not the only, or even the main, U.S. interest in Japan. Indeed, a hewkish American attitude oo economic concessions could drive the Jepanese down the road to military expen-

sionism once again. Neither can we make the automatic assumption—so dear to many officials in the State Department and the Peutagon—that a growing Japanese role in defense and foreign policy is neces-sarily in the American interest. It may well be that we want to maintain barriers against what the Japanese can do in asserting themselves throughout Asia and in building military forces—par-ticularly in the noclear field.

The point is not that Japan has suddenly become a world menace. The point is that Japan could once again become a threat to international stability. So lo the American interest, in the Japanese interest, and in the world interest, we all need to anese professions of peaceful think hard about what kind of intention seemed to endorse a Japan we want to see developing dominant American role in the over the next five or teu years.

I have lived in Washington. D.C., most of my life, save the past two months. During 35 years I have read in the American press little else than insults to General Franco and belittlement of Spain and Spaniards. Even President Truman, of Biroshima fame, joined in these insults of the most personal natura. While this was going on the decent people of the United States were thinking the matter over and reserving judgment; now they are convinced that General Franco not only saved Spain from the Communist tyrauny but has rebuilt Spain into a strong nation and a trustworthy friend against any attempt of Communism to destroy Europe and its resurgence. President Nixon declared during his trip to this country point and urgsney to the cam-paign reform bills now awaiting floor action in the Senate and under committee consideration in the House. A major overhaul of the rules under which public officials are nominated and elected may not be the most headlinegrabbing topic before Congress (everybody claims to be for it.) until you get to the fine print) but it is certainly among the most important. Unless action is taken now, high public office will become more than ever the preserve of the rich and those who are able somehow to tap corporate and labor union treasuries and the private resources of the rich and powerful.

Some of the developments of the past few weeks in the battle for campaign reform are highly encouraging, but the increasing air of partisanship enveloping the consideration of this matter on Capitol Hill is a threat. This is no time for small-time politics.

There is no doubt that the financial straits of the national Democratic party, the relative wealth of the Republicans and President Nixon's veto of the political broadcasting limitation bill last fall are among the major reasons for the built-up head of steam behind the drive for campaign reform this year. He was given a few French lines in the German text, but hardly needed them to reach the sudience.

Less activity was demanded of Jill Gomez as Pamina, which she sang with limpid beauty and act-ed with melancholy conviction a touching counterpart to Tappy's bright tenor and noble demeanor. Victor de Narké, a young Argentine bass, was a rich-century opera with the world premiere last week of "Béatris de Planissolas" by the 38-year-old French composer Jacques Charpentier. The story, uniquely suited for presentation in this part of France, is based on historical records of the inquisition in Languedoc during the period of the Cathar heresy in the 14th century, and deals with a perceptive and understanding inquisitor's investigation of a case arising from a young woman's love affair with a heretical priest.

Yet the composer seems to have done everything possible to defeat the success of his work on the stage. The text by René Nelli is not only cast mainly in the form of static dialogues, but it is in langue d'Oc-the language as it was spoken in the south of The Aix festival made one of France in that era-which, bownow moribund and remote from any modern audience.

Thus the spectator, aided only by a meager synopsis, was reduced to guessing what might be under discussion during the 90-minute, one-act work. The film director, Dominique Delouche, tried to overcome this problem by using two dancers to represent the souls of the two lovers, but to little avail, and the richly colored set of Juvenal Sanso did bttle to help either.

Charpentier conducted his own rich and subtle atonal score, and the Orchestre de Paris made the most of music that was at least intermittently interesting. Liliane Guitton as Beatris, Marc Vento as the bishop, and Michel Trempont as the priest gave their best in these rather daunting circum-

Midsummer Diversion

By Thomas Quinn Curtiss

DARIS, July 28 (IHT).—It is mistakenly supposed that the Parisian theater goes to sleep when summer comes, but there are more plays in Paris at the moment than you will find on Broadway at Christmas time.

And they are not stale leftorers or catchpenny, out-of-season ex-hibits designed to rook the un-wary who have missed their trains or planes. The finest theater in the land, the Comedie-Française, remains open until Aug. 2.

For those with an appetite for serious modern drama, there is Montherlant's beautifully written 'La Ville Dont le Prince Est un Enfant" (at the Michel), with its religious-school setting and its tale of the flesh and the spirit in conflict.

Marc Camoletti's "Boeing-Boeing," in which a sly Don Juan miscalculates his pursuit of a squadron of air hostesses, is still rocking the Comédie-Caumartin after eleven summers. "Pan-toufle," Eric Kahane's nimble adaptation of Alan Ayekbourn's London hit, "Relatively Speaking," staged by Jean-Laurent Cochet and interpreted by an able quartet, is a merry pastime at the Daunou. Another Ayckbourn success (being played on Shaftes-bury Avenue by Robert Morley), "How The Other Half Loves." turned into French as "Du Côté de Chez l'Antre," has the comic Darry Cowl and Odette Laure as its stars at the Madeleine.

Françoise Dorin's "La Fac-ture," concerned with a lady who has all the lnck, is back at the Nouveautés with Marthe Mercadier replacing Jacqueline Maillan and Jan de Hartog's "Le Ciel de Lit" (known in English as "The Four Poster") is at the Palais-Royal in a Colette translation. Jean Anouilh has spiked his comedy of a playwright's private life and troubles, 'Les Poissons Rouges," with an astringent black burnor and east it in a series of sketches after the revue formula. Ionesco's double bill of nonsense playlets—"La Leçon" and "La Cantatrice Chauve"—is something of which the public never tires. list as the tower:

It is now in its 14th year at the Parisian evening.

Huchette, having almost become a historic monument. Jarry's "'Ubu Roi," written in 1896, is of even longer life. Actually the first "absurd" play, it influenced Apollinaire, Cocteau, Audiberti, Boris Vian and, in turn, Ionesco. You will find it in a new revival at the Monfictard.

Believe it or not, the American musical comedy of 1934, "Rose Marie," "Indian Love Cali," Canadian Mounties and all, is at the Mogador. A French favorite since the 1920s, it blooms again. "Hair," after two years at the Porte Saint-Martin, is on vaca-tion, but another importation, "Oh! Calcutta" of New York and London notoriety is at the Elysée-Montmartre.

The Folies-Bergère continues through the summer with its Marcel Gyarmathy extravaganza, "Et Vive La Folie," a show of glittering tableaux, scenic wonders and beauty parades. Roland Petit's revue with gorgeous Erté decor, stylish dancing and choreography and the incomparable Zizi Jeanmaire as its dazzling star is at the Casino de Paris.

There is choice selection of din-ner-spectacles. The Lido's "Grand Prix" is aptly titled. Here is a blue-ribbon revue, a champagne show, the like of which has not been seen on Broadway since the days of Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll. The Moulin Rouge's "Fantastic" blends the world of Toulouse-Lautrec with the ultra-modern.

At the Alcazar the traditions of the French revue are wildly and hilariously burlesqued in a threehour travesty of breathtaking speed. Both singing waiters and the spectators join in the numbers, affording audience participation with a vengeance. At the Crazy Horse Saloon there is no dinner (curtain time is at 10). but a banquet of the most ingenious stripteases in the world sandwiched between droll turns. The performance offered after dinner in the Elffel Tower restanrant (dinner at 8, show at 9:30) is as high on the recommended list as the tower itself, an ideal

Can Couture Last?

By Hebe Dorsey

DARIS, July 28 (1HT).—The magic has seeped out of Paris couture. It used to be that two tense weeks were bardly enough to catch np with the latest Paris styles. Now, the show is all over in four days. That alone may mean that many of the smaller houses will fall by the wayside. Dior, the giant who always timed his show at midweek (same day, same hour), and Saint Laurent, the prima donna who kept thousands daugling until the very last day, both showed on opening day this week what looked like a hit-and-run operation. In a way, it was like eating your main course before your hors d'œuvre. Although Jacques Rouet, Dior's director, claimed that this change timing was due to production problems, it has been clear for quite some time that buyers, manufacturers and press alike, awed by Parls's extravagant prices, were anxious to trim their trips down. So it follows that those who show earliest have the best chance of capturing the maximum business and press.

The ambiance is no longer what it used to be. In the heyday of couture, you had sparkling parties, crowned by a fairy-tale ball given by the late Jacques Fath in his château. Helena Rubinstein used to have garden parties at her mill with the Picassos on easels strewn around on the grass and it was all very grand. Now, you are lncky if you get as much as a stale canapé.

In a way, the couturiers themselves, in an effort to draw declining attention, de-fused their own bomb by looking for advance publicity. They have killed the suspense. The Chanel show was all over Paris Match before the press had even a chance to see it; French television has been running advance and detailed reports on the collections every day.

· The biggest change has been among the American contingent, who used to be the lavish spenders of all time. But where you had 130 buyers for plush American stores and manufacturers, you now have 35. The money spent has dwindled too. A first-class order used to be 50 models a season. Now, this is cut down to seven, eight at the most.

It would be wrong to put the blame entirely on French couture. Business has been rough in the United States for the last couple of years and many houses, which used to be steady couture clients, not only do not come any more but have shut doors altogether. The biggest drawing card now is the ready-to-wear shows and last April Paris throbbed with the kind of excitement that used to surround the haute conture. "Couture isn't that important any more," said Dany Zarem, vice-president of Bonwit Teller. "We still have to come to have general idea, to be able to direct our people back home, to be on the right wavelength."

Most conturiers have their own ready-to-wear collections and this has cut down the importance of couture. According to Women's Wear Daily, although the major houses have not been into readyto-wear for more than five years, it already accounts for a $20 million overall turnover.

So the question comes np: How much longer can couture last under its present format? Wouldn't it make more sense to combine all operations and have two very strong seasons instead of four. two of which are getting increasingly lame.

The company to be fined is Raffinerie Tirlemontoise, which has a near-monopoly of Belgium's sugar-refining production. The commission is understood to have imposed a fine of somewhat less than $5,000, the maximum which EEC rules allow.

Anti-trust and business competition is one of the few areas in which the commission, a nineman body whose main task is to make policy recommendations, has direct authority.

Willy Schlieder, director-general for anti-trust in the commission's anti-trust department, said that the commission is particularly concerned about agreements that lead to market-sharing in the food and drink industry.

Last mouth, the commission acted against three EEC breweries that failed to supply trading information that was intended to explain why such a small amount of total EEC beer production is exported across intra-Common Market frontiers.

The commission wants similar information from the Belgian sugar group, which has a number

And the cost of living, a steadily corrosive economic factor cited by Mr. Nixon a year and a half ago, continues to climb to more troublesome height. Only five days ago the government reported a six-tenths of 1 percent increase in the consumer price index, an acceleration in inflationary pressure over May and months, when they were on a steady rise. The only indicators that improved last month were the average work week and the ratio of prices to labor costs. Until the June figures were posted, the administration had declared that the advances snowed that the economic expansion Dassault, Lockheed, Olympic was strong. But today, Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer said: "The dip in June does not alter the fact that a strong uptrend has been under wey in the leading indicators since last October." Mr. Passer, an economist, said: "The interpretation of these movements must be based on the pattern over several months rather than the change in a single month." The government said the index now was 9 percent above the low posted last October, when the General Motors strike adversely affected the economy. Contributing to the one-half of

1 percent decline in the index for June were falls in building permits, new orders for durable goods, industrial-material prices, stock prices, initial claims for jobless insurance, and contracts and orders for plant and equipment. The June trade deficit was the worst one-month figure since February, 1969. Capital observers expected that a continuation in the deficit would prompt renewed cell; in Congress for protectionist legislation against imports. The administration has repath so far.

BRIDGE,

By Alan Truscott

The diagramed deal gave a good score to South. He reached a slightly ambitious contract of four spades after his partner had ed the bidding and shown belated enthusiasm for spades.

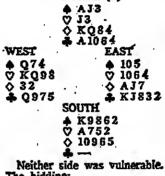

West led a club, and the defense persevered with that suit rather too often for their own good. South ruffed in his hand and led a diamond to the queen. East ducked and South returned to his hand with a second club ruff to play another diamond. East cashed his two diamond winners and reached this post-

At this point East did South's work for him by leading a low club. This enabled South to ruff in his hand, cash the spade king, finesse the spade jack and draw West'e queen. He cashed his minor-sult winners and eventually lost a heart trick.

East would have defeated the contract if he had returned a tion. The declarer would not then have had the communications to ruff the club ten in his own hand and draw the trumps,

MAIGRET AND THE WINE MERCHANT

By Georges Simenon. Translated by Eileen Ettendoge court Brace Jovanovich. 187 pp. $5.50.

Reviewed by Anatole Broyard

GEORGES SIMENON is one of the few mystery writers to show a proper respect for the act of murder. In so many novels of this genre, killing is simply a condiment to spice the plot. The murder market has been seized by inflation. A half dozen or even dozen people are sometimes dispatched just to keep the reader awake and the pot boiling. And of course, the more murders there ar: in a book, the less they mean to us. Murderer and victim are often strangers to each other, and the killing is dispassionate and impersonal, an elimination of one or more obstacles to the plot. In fact, the word elimina-tion has become a synonym for murder. Simenon opposes this trend. In his work, murder is personal to the highest degree. It is not an elimination, but a crystallization. Usually, it is the summation of the killer's character, a dramatic mobilization of the scattered forces of the self, the last resort of an ego threatened with disintegration. In Maigret and the Wine Merchant," the murderer clearly feels that it is better to kill than to suffer the death of the self.

While murder strikes most of us as an exotic act—perhaps the most exotic of all—Simenon domesticates it. To him, it is an extreme form of psychic indigestion: The killer simply cannot swallow the victim's behavior. There is rarely any real violence in which law and order shoot it out. Simenon's Inspector Maigret simply says to the killer, in effect: Well, now you've expressed yourself in an enti-social way that, for complex reasons, we can't afford to tolerate, end so we'll have to take you along to the station.

Maigret is the psychological antithesis of, say, James Bond. While Bond exists in a vacuum, Maigret is comfortably married and firmly mortised into bourgeois life. It's not unusual for him to wonder, in the midst of an investigation, what's on for dinner. At one point in "Maigret and the Wine Merchant," the case is going badly and the in-spector wishes he could stay in his warm bed, instead of going out into the rain to look for an elusive killer. Chabut, the wine merchant of the title, is the victim, and Maigret begins his investigation by reconstructing the dead man's haracter. Questioning his wife, his mistresses, his friends and his employees, the inspector asks: What was there about this man that made someone want to kill him? And who would have suffered most as a result of these traits? From there, he follows the spoor of character to its psychological conclusion Although Chabut had slept with the wives of most of his friends, the husbands were all too sophisticated to be capable of killing him. Murder, in Sime-non's books, is almost a religious act; it can be committed only by a believer a more or less conven-tional person. With a nice Gallic irony, the author shows us that only the murderer felt anything for Chabut. The wine merchant

Dobson Wins 11th Straight As Orioles Sweep Athletics

BALTIMORE, July 28 (NYT).

If the Beltimore Orioles represent the American League in the 1971 World Series, the chib's vice-president and director of player personnel, Harry Dalton, can take credit for his perspicacity

Dalton plucked Pat Dobson off the San Diego roster with another pitcher for four pieces of Bal-timore property on Dec. 1, 1970. Dobson, a right-hander, had toiled long and value for the Padres. He had worked in 40 games, pitched a total of 251 innings and won 14 games, one fewer than he lost. In short, he appeared to be a competent workhorse, a man the Orioles could use when the double-headers piled up in the heat of July and August.

Instead, Dobson has become the world champions' best hurier. Yesterday, in the twilight game of a doubleheader, he gained his 14th victory of the season and 11th straight triumph, beating no gradging the less an opponent than the Oak-and son the less and Athletics, the Western Division leaders, 1-0.

Dobson hurled hitless ball for 4 2/3 innings. Then Dick Green singled after Dobson had fanned four men in a row. Dobson finished with 13 strikeouts and expensive walked two en route to his secme? A. ## NFL Scrambling for Quarterbacks

By Bob Oates

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Bart Starr's departure from Green Bay for arm surgery the other day underlined the perilous condition of most NFL clubs' quarterbacks this season

At least 20 of the 26 franchises have an unsettled look in their mo important position, Green Bay and Baltimore, for instance, have lost—perhaps for good—football's two best known active veterans, Starr, 37, and John Unitas, 38. Unitas, recovering from Achilles teodon surgery, will be replaced by Earl Morral, 37, in the college All-Star game at Chicago Friday night.

In Cincinnati, Greg Cook's arm trouble has come hack. Joe Na-math of the Jets has a bad hand that may be permanently damaged. Roman Gabriel'e knee is heavily bandaged during Ram practices. At 31. Gabriel has not yet come all the way back from knee and elbow surgery.

Injuries, however, are only part of the quarterback problem in pro football. Detroit is being led by a bitterly unhappy young man, Greg Landry, who, after losing a debate for more money, is playing out his option. Daryle Lamonica, unhappier

Atlanta, saddled with a 5-foot-10-inch quarterback, Boh Berry, in a 6-foot-4 era, is trying to land Kepp-who walked out of the New England Patriots' camp last week, Joe and the Patriots have two different recollections this year of what the club agreed last year to pay him.

Now the Patriots have to do it with Mike Taliaferro or a rookie, Jim Phinkett, New Orleans also hopes to do it with a rookie, Archie Manning, and Cleveland is trying to do it with a sophomore, Mike Phipps, re-placing the injured Bill Nelsen. Two other clubs, Denver and Philadelphia, are playing musical chairs. Denver has a new quarterback. Don Horn—a castoff from Green Bay. Philadelphia has also named a vew No. 1 quarterback, Pete Liske-the castoff from Deuver. Otherwise going into the 1971 season, six NFL organizations are experiencing the confusion of a two-quarterback system. The lack of a recognized leader is causing problems in Pittsburgh (Terry Hanratty vs. Terry Bradshawi, St. Louis (Jim Hart vs. Pete Beathard), Dallas (Craig Morton vs. Roger Staubach) and Chicago (Bobby Douglass vs. Jack Connot yet disposed of Marty Domres to everybody's satisfacis between a veteran, Charley Johnson, and two rookies, Dan Pastorini and Lynn Dickey. The Houston conflict is the most bizarre of all. Only four pro clubs have resolved the quarterback situation this year with healthy, capable, consistent leaders: San Francisco (John Brodie), Washington (Sonny Jurgensen), Miami (Bob Griese) and the Giants (Fran Tarkenton).

Two others are still in charge (Len Dawson in Kansas City and Dennis Shaw in Buffalo) but are still doubted by some of their coaches and opponents.

Minnesota has not yet decided between Gary Cuozzo and Norman Snead, but on that team it doesn't matter. Either, no doubt, could win there. Such is the power of the Vikings.

The Scoreboard

GOLF—At Crans-sur-Sierre, Switzor-land, Clive Clork, of Britain, fired a six-under-par 55 to take the first round lead in the Swiss Open golf championship lodar. One stroke behind him was Spanlord Manuel Ballesteros. Tieni Brit of South Africa and British trio Stuert Brown, Lionel Platts and Eric Brown shared third place at 87. Among a big contingent at 70 were Roberto de Viaenzo. of Argentina, American Billy Casper and Taiwan's Lu Linng Ruan, winner of the French Open.

After Tax Seizure

By Dave Anderson

Ali Takes on IRS

HOUSTON, July 28 (NYT) .-With racial defiance, Muhamuad Ali nttacked the Internal Revenue Service yesterday for seizing $130,000 as a tax prepayment from his 3450,000 guarantee for his 12th-round knockout victory over Jimmy Ellis at the Astrodome Monday night.

According to his attorneys, All had planned to set aside at least $100.000 for "such deductible investments as oll and gas explorations." His attorneys, Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago and Mark T. McDonald of Houston, alleged in a petition filed last week in U.S. district court here that Ali owes no income tax and has no history" of ever having owed taxes. "They don't allow me to do like other people do," Ali com-plained at a news conference. They deliberately take all my money. I'm allowed to take so much for investment, but they don't allow me. They make deliberately sure I'm one black man that don't get that money to go into business with. It's legal, but they wou't let me."

Ali charged the "government," as he said, with racial prejudice regarding the "black man's"

"Hollering about civil rights. all this integrating mess, just give me my money," Ali said. "Let me do what I want to do. They're envious of the money we makin', the black men. see that he dou't use it. He ends

'People say, 'All of that mon-ey, Joe Louis and Sugar Ray, it's o shame they don't have wothin' But when ooe is smart enough, like myself, to do something with it, they make sure he don't get it. Then they want to know why I follow Elijah Muhammad. Bccause he's right, that's why." Elijah Muhammad is the leader of the Nation of Islam, also known as the Black Muslim sect. "At my fight with Joe Frazier," continued Ali, the government took $800,000, and New York State took $348,000, just seized it before I could get my check. Just took it, Then they write that I'm a bad citizen."

Ali's criticism of the IRS followed the U.S. Supreme Court's reversal last mouth of his 1967 draft-refusal conviction. According to Bob Arum, the president of the Top Rank, Inc. firm that promoted Monday's bout, Ali will earn about $560,000 from his 45 percent share of the 'lighters' bot.' estimated at $1.25 million. Ellis will collect about $250,000 for his 20 percent. The total revenue, Arum predicted, will be between $2.1 and $2.7 millin, mostly from ancillary income. All renamed Angelo Dundee, who deserted him in order to manage Ellis Monday night, as one of his trainers, along with Harry Wiley, once Sugar Ray Robinson's trainer. Wiley worked with All here in his preparations. Staying in Condition

Embargo Puts International Trot in Peril

By Louis Effrat WESTBURY, L.I., July 28 (NYT).—The $125,000 International Trot at Rooseveit Raceway Aug. 21 appeared today to be in jeopardy. A shortage of stan-dardbreds, because of an embargo on horses entering France, is all the root of the problem. Venezuelan equine encephal-omyelitis, which has killed thousands of animals in Texas Louisiana and other parts of the Southwest, is the reason for a kan by the French Ministry of Agriculture on horses coming from North America or South

The two best trotters in Europe Une de Mai, the 1969 winner of the International, and Tidalium Pelo, the runnerup last year to Fresh Yankee, are "in principle," harred from competiog, said Jean-René Gongeon, the trainer and driver of Uve de Mai French horses are permitted to eoter the United States but would not be permitted to return home.

Earlier Bans

The embargo ou the shipment of horses to France, disclosed action by Ireland and Britain. Nothing has been heard from Italy and Sweden, but trotters are expected from those countries in the mile-and-a-quarter International. German and Dutch horses could also take part in the race, since neither country bas an embargo. Local harness officials have been asked for help from the Ministry of Agriculture division of the French Embassy in Washington, Meanwhile, Count Pierre de Montesson, owner of Une de Mai: Roger Lemarle, owner of Tidalium Pelo; Gougeon, also head of the French Drivers and Trainers Association, and Alex Ignaticif, a journalist who represents Roosevelt Raceway in Europe, prescrited their directly to the Ministry of Agriculture in Paris. A decision is expected soon, although Roland Masia, the ministry's head veterinarian, said he would not "at this moment" make an exception for the two trotters. Masia said he had niready told Gougeon and Jenn Mary, trainer-driver of Tidalium Pelo, that "I coudn't chauge my

World Report

Kissinger has been getting all the attention in the past few weeks, our own Vice-President, Spiro Agnew, has just returned from a successful goodwill trip around the world. Its significance could affect foreign affairs for years to come. Flying in four Boeing-707s and one cargo planc. with two hulletproof Cadillacs. the Agnew party of 141 people, paying an average of $3,000 a Buchwald night for quarters, visited such places as Saudi Arabia, Ethiopia. Kenya, the Congo. Spain and Portugal.

Anxiously awaiting his report on his returo was President

"Well, Spiro, we're really glad to have you hack in the country. "Thank you, Mr. President. Say, I heard a funny thing in Spain—this will make you really laugh. Some joker said you were going to Red China to visit Mao Tse-tung. How do you like that for a kooky rumor?

"It's not kooky, Spiro. It's true. And I don't want you to say anything to louse it up." "Are you out of your mind, Mr. President? There isn't a decent golf course in the entire country.

"I'm not going to play golf in Red China. You're not going to play golf?

French Villagers Win Wet Fight for Fountain

CRUSEILLE, France, July 28 (UPI).—Residents of this eastern mountain community saved their 100-year-old village fouotaio yesterday by fighting off operators of a hulldozer with water hoses.

At the traditional church-bell Riert against attack, townspeople rushed to do battle in the village square. Police quickly restored order. But the fountain remained standing. It was to have been torn down to make way for a traffic island with directional

WASHINGTON.—While Henry Then why would you go there?" "I have some things I want to talk over with Mao." "Why didn't you let me know about it, Mr. President?" "I tried to get you several tlores, but they told me you were always on the golf course and you left word you didn't waut to be disturbed." # $ #

'That isn't true, Mr. Presldent. The reporters who were with me kept putting out the stories that I was always playing golf to embarrass me. The truth of the matter is I played as much tennis as I did golf." "Never mind. Tell me what voll have to report." "The South Koreans don't like the North Koreans. President Clung Hee Park told me that himself."

"That's interesting. What "The Saudi Arabians don't trust the Israelis." "How do you know this?".

"Prince Faisal revealed this to me in strictest confidence."

"You mean King Faisal." "Prince-king, what's the difference? I saw Jomo Kenyatta for 15 minutes in Kenya. I gave him some candlesticks and he gave me a monkey-skin rohe. Haile Selassie says hello, Ethiopia has made fantastic progress in its putting greens."

"Anything I should know about the Congo?" "Mobutu really has his blacks under control. Our hlack leaders could learn a thing or two from Kenyatta and Mobutu, believe you me." "I know about that, Spiro. Your remarks on our black leaders were reported back here in detail. And while I'm sure they were received well in Keoya and the Congo, they didn't go over very big with our black lead-ers here." "Well, you can't please everybody when you're on a goodwill trip." "Im not criticizing you, Spiro.

How's Franco?" "He's okay. I shot B 76, B 74, and B 79 in Spain. They have some of the finest fairways in the world at Sotogrande." "You've really worked hard, Spiro, and the information you brought back is invaluable."

A Hero for the Moscow Film Festival

MOSCOW (IHT).—It's always nice for film festivals—or any other occasioo for that matter-to have a hero, and the seventh biennial Moscow Film Festival had one here last weekend. He was producer-director Staniey Kramer.

Kramer, who has B suitably boyish grin, firm jaw and purposeful walk, became a hero at the third Moscow Festival when. as a member of the jury, he made an impassioned speech and a dramatic exit because the Eastern bloc-dominated jury refused to give B prize to the unquestionably best film, Pederico Pellini's "8 1 2."

Thirty minutes after the walk-out the jury voted again and Fellini won, 21 to 0," Kramer says. He adds with R grin, "Fellini was telephoned and he came from Rome to get his prize. The next day the Russians banned his film."

Kramer again hecame a hero in 1967 at the fifth Moscow Festival when the Russians accused the Americans of turning up the music track on "West Side Story" so Rudiences wouldn't hear any words criticizing America. Kramer had the entire lyrics translated into Russian and read out loud, after which he stated:

"It may well be that we can criticize ourselves better than Izvestia does," Wild applause.

Russians consider Kramer America's top film-maker and have possibly seen more of his films than any other director's: "On the Beach," "Inherit the Wind," "Judgment at Nuremberg," "The Defiant Ones," and "It's a Mad, Mad World," which they judge an assault on capitalism and for which they paid B record fee of $250,000.

But being a hero can be tough t"Well, what about Cuha?" was the first question Kramer was asked when he became one in 19631, and it can be trying: "You can take only so much social significance." Kramer sighed the other day at 10 a.m. He had already had three heavy inter-discussion with Russia's top older directors, during which Kramer gave the Unioo a Steuhen dove of peace and the Union gave Kramer fulsome praise:

"Your films give hope" (top Soviet establishment director Sergel Gerasimov). "Your film made me cry" (70-year-old Mark Donskol, whose cheeks were still wet 1. "It is good to see a caring person. I have been waiting for this a long time" (director Josip Heifitz).

Of course the very qualities

these days than if you're a reactionary."

The hig attack came with

"Guess Who's Coming to Dinner." which led some critics to roast Kramer for making his hlack hero hopelessly perfect. Kramer says they missed the point:

"It was a fable, a fairy tale in which everyone was perfect. The audience had to say yea Bt the end to the wedding because if they didn't their only reason would be that the man was hlack. The critics hated me for that, they said I forced it."

Kramer's appeal to the emotions and his didactic tendencies please the Russians. After the premiere of "Bless the Beasts and Children," the poet Yevtushenko sent him B scrawled note to say he "teaches all of us the kindness, the humanity inside humanity." Of the film's chances in the U.S. Kramer

"I'm not under any illusions, I know I'm a target." He will open the picture in August at the National Student Conference in Deover. His best Budience, he says, is the uoder 20s, At its simplest, "Bless the Beasts" is about six boys at a summer camp in the American West who save a herd of buffalo from being slaughtered by government-sanctioned hunters. It was shot in Arizona and on Catalina Island where 500 buffalo, descended from the six who were brought there in 1926 for the film, "The Vanishing American," now roam.

Viewers have suggested the film is about Kent State, My Lat ecology and the sanctity of life. Possibly to simplify the theme for exploitation purposes, Kramer has decided it is about the need for gun control. He has been hlasted with predictable ire hy the American Rifle Association, which accuses him of excessive sentimentality or, as they put it, "inciplent bamhl-

Kramer says he cannot do films he doesn't believe in and cites as his two failures "The Caine Mtiny" (he thought the mutineers were right) and "R.P.M." ("It was B search for my own head"). He may next do a film on Lt. Calley. has bought the rights to John Sack's hook but is still disturbed and uncertain about the

"I don't want to make a film that's all things to all people, I would like B point of view. "You have to ask yourself where is the truth, can you find a part of the truth? After all, the blggest lies in the world have heen based on part of the truth." "I wouldn't be surprised if I didn't have to sit somewhere and think cao I do it," Kramer says. The answer, he states, may
